

Intro for Governor Bev Perdue

At a time when North Carolina's future is on the line, Gov. Bev Perdue is standing up for our priorities—education for our children and jobs for our people.

For more than two decades — as Lt. Governor and a state legislator — Gov. Perdue worked to move North Carolina forward as the state transitioned from a rural, agrarian society to a globally competitive 21st century economy.

She has acted on her firm belief that world-class public schools are essential to ensuring opportunity and prosperity for all citizens — even though her own parents never graduated high school.

And she has demanded the highest standards of efficiency, transparency and accountability in state government.

Gov. Perdue's bold vision and record of public service give North Carolina's citizens the leadership we need at this critical time in our history.

Now — North Carolina's 73rd governor — Bev Perdue.